

United States District Court
for the Southern District of Florida

Tashnie Haughton, Plaintiff,)
)
v.)	Civil Action No. 23-22631-Civ-Scola
)
Walmart, Inc., Defendant.)

Order to Show Cause Why This Case Should Not Be Dismissed for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction

This matter is before the Court upon an independent review of the record. “As federal courts, we are courts of limited jurisdiction, deriving our power solely from Article III of the Constitution and from the legislative acts of Congress,” and “we are bound to assure ourselves of jurisdiction even if the parties fail to raise the issue.” Harris v. United States, 149 F.3d 1304, 1308 (11th Cir. 1998). In addition, “a jurisdictional defect cannot be waived by the parties and may be raised at any point during litigation.” Allen v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 155 F. App’x 480, 481 (11th Cir. 2005).

On July 14, 2023, the Defendant Walmart, Inc. (“Walmart”) filed a notice of removal purporting to remove the instant case from Florida state court to federal court. (ECF No. 1.) The notice of removal alleges subject matter jurisdiction based on diversity pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332. (Id. ¶ 5.) However, for the reasons stated below, it is unclear whether the Court has diversity jurisdiction.

28 U.S.C. § 1332(a)(1) provides, in relevant part, that “[t]he district courts shall have original jurisdiction of all civil actions where the matter in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $75,000, exclusive of interest and costs, and is between . . . citizens of different States[.]” “[I]t is the burden of the party seeking federal jurisdiction to demonstrate that diversity exists by a preponderance of the evidence.” McCormick v. Aderholt, 293 F.3d 1254, 1257 (11th Cir. 2002); see Williams v. Best Buy Company, Inc., 269 F.3d 1316, 1319 (11th Cir. 2001) (the removing party has the burden of proving that federal jurisdiction exists by a preponderance of the evidence and the removing party must present facts establishing its right to remove).

In its notice of removal, Walmart alleges that complete diversity of citizenship exists because it is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Arkansas, and the Plaintiff Tashnie Haughton is a resident of Florida. However, under 28 U.S.C § 1332(a)(1), it is the citizenship, or domicile, of an individual party that is the relevant inquiry, not her or his residence.

Molinos Valle Del Cibao, C. por A. v. Lama, 633 F.3d 1330, 1341–42 (11th Cir. 2011) (“Domicile is not synonymous with residence; one may temporarily reside in one location, yet retain domicile in a previous residence.”); Crist v. Carnival Corp., 410 F. App’x 197, 200 (11th Cir. 2010) (explaining that an allegation that a party is a “resident” of a State is “insufficient for diversity jurisdiction purposes because residency is not the equivalent of citizenship”). Thus, because Walmart has failed to adequately state the citizenship of the Plaintiff, the Court is unable to determine whether it has jurisdiction to proceed.

Accordingly, it is hereby ordered that by July 24, 2023, Walmart shall show cause why this matter should not be dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. Failure to respond within the time provided will result in the dismissal of this case without prejudice, without further notice.

Done and ordered in Miami, Florida, on July 17, 2023.

Robert N. Scola, Jr.
United States District Judge